

TRANSCONAVIEWS

Mosaic Funeral Services and Mosaic Event Centre Celebrating Life in Transcona

by Brian Campbell

Although Mosaic Funeral Services has just opened a new office in downtown Transcona, they have been actively operating in Transcona for more than four years. At the invitation of the Transcona business community they opened their Nairn Street location, taking over the former MPI office, and it has been a very good fit.

In fact, it has been such a good fit, that, last year, they expanded into Mosaic Event Centre, which not only provides funeral services, but can now provide a location where you can have your wedding social, wedding, baby shower, or whatever life event you may need.

Owner, Darin Hoffman explains, “In a church hall, you can have a funeral, a wedding, a baptism, and a confirmation all in the same day. It’s the same thing with this facility. Not only do we do memorial and funerals services here, we do everything from yoga and Zumba classes, weddings and socials, and even corporate events.”

That is why the sign in front of their building reads, ‘Mosaic Event Centre, Celebrating Life’ because Mosaic is equipped to help you celebrate all facets of a person’s life

Darin believes that multifaceted Funeral Home/Event Centres will be the wave of the future. People are getting more and more non-traditional in the way they celebrate their loved one’s life and funeral homes need to evolve with them.

On the funeral side of things, Darin believes very strongly in prearrangement. In his opinion, grieving family members shouldn’t have to worry about what their loved one’s final wishes were, or how they will afford to carry out those wishes. Darin becomes very passionate about, not only prearranging their funerals, but making sure that financing is available, and the burden doesn’t fall on their grieving family.

A business is only as good as its people, and Darin is very proud of the staff that works with him at Mosaic. He feels that it is important for a business to serve its community, and the staff at Mosaic follow his example.

Darin has enjoyed serving the Transcona community and hopes that the convenience of their new information office can expand this service. His ultimate goal to assist the people of Transcona with, not only their funeral needs, but to celebrate all of the events in their lives.